Path 1: kdrooto1-kdprayedo1

1. Q: What are you unsure about?

A chosen: Whether I have prayed this prayer at all, or prayed it correctly (the prayer is over)

Option rests on: doubtprayeritself: "after the prayer's time"

2. Q: Has the time for this prayer already ended?

A chosen: No, I am still within its time, and I doubt whether I prayed it

Option rests on: doubtprayeritself: "before the end of prayer's time, he doubts whether he has performed the prayer or not"

Outcome:

However, if before the end of prayer's time, he doubts whether he has performed the prayer or not, he should pray. Rather, if one thinks (i.e. more than fifty percent) that he has performed it, he should pray.

The probability of more than fifty percent regarding number of rak'ah in a prayer is just like the 'certainty'. Outcome:

A person, who usually doubts three times in one prayer, or in three consecutive prayers usually doubts at least once in each prayer, if his doubting a lot is not due to an incident that causes fear or anger, or distracts the attention, then he is considered as 'a person who doubts too much' and should not pay attention to his doubt.

'A person who doubts too much' must assume the occurrence of the act about which he doubts if performing it does not invalidate his prayer. For example, if a person doubts whether he has performed sajdah or not, he should assume that he has performed it. If doing it invalidates prayer, he must assume that he has not performed it, like if he doubts whether he has performed one rukū' or two, he should posit that he has performed one rukū' because making two rukū' invalidates prayer.

1. Q: What are you unsure about?

A chosen: I'm not sure

Outcome:

You said you are not sure. The page does not guess: please read the passage in Ayatollah Khamenei's Rules on Prayer & Fasting, or ask his office, so that the answer rests on what actually happened in your prayer.
